Bob darling. -

Here I am sitting in my cabin, in pajamas and my heavy coat, on the edge of my day bed with a table pulled up in front. It seems so good to write on a table for a change - it must seem good to you, too. I wish I could fix the lights in this place so I didn't need to use the overhead one & so that I could read in bed. The real bed is out on the "sleeping porch" - a tiny room off this one - with one big window. I suppose this is done to keep this room warm. No central heating here - just a coal electro-therm - right out in the middle of the room - people are so dumb. But when I get some college

Spears & stuff, it's look 2 better - Even good. It really is a cute place & I like being alone & not in infirmary.
Infirmary - you are never away from it well. Here I am - more like college.

I have got to give me some good books to read. I'm lost at times & I've always wanted to read & visit the times. Anytime you'd like to suggest for the betterment of your future wife's mind? Something to make her understand you better? - Spill it, then.

So, you may thought my telegram was cute! Ha! you didn't even take in the tender sentiment I bestowed upon you. You didn't think the partnership idea was a permanent one - eh - well, But man, you'd better

2 do some foot thinking - very fast. 3

I'm getting used to the swing of things now. I feel better, things disappear, go help with feeding pneumonia baby, do quilt lessons etc. last night I had a super talk with Dr. Gosh, I do like the man. (married).
Honestly, he is just the simple old country Dr. stuff. Say he doesn't care what he gets for money as long as it's enough. He wants to work where a Dr. is needed - & is he willing to die. He has a devilish smile & twinkle in his eye and when you around. He's been swell to me - telling me not to worry I'd catch it - to me all concern seem anyway.
He is a fine man & his unitable. The kind you can't help admiring. He discussed everything last night.

2. Labor, gray medicine, bitter cancer, all his medicines etc.
And we feel much better.

A lesson dropped out the two main disadvantages to this job for me -

1. Too Confusing - really have to be in infirmary practically all the time.
Of course you do get out - we alternate going down for needs - but it is limited.

2. People's acquaintance is limited. Dr. & we are only people aside from for you really know well. And ~~the~~ they are good people - excellent. Of course you do see some people outside in community who come in & that is interesting. But it is possible to get to know other faculty members well even you don't have time. They are fairly OSS: feel much anyway & pretty shy. Of course there are some nice young ones - but nobody goes out of their way to keep you out. I write at staff "party" - & all was very stiff - & feet were loosening up & giving em a good time. I finally slipped out to give leavenings to Miss Weaver (course) & nobody noticed! Everybody's pleasant enough - but not particularly out of the way friendly.

I think I'm going to get bored with the routine - and simple leavenings - but then maybe I'll get to like it. I never know how to do it before. But I really think if this job can conquer my fear & silliness - the year is well rewarded.
 Already my mind is easier.
 Seriously, darling, as you well know, nothing could be better for the rest of my

2 life - my life - than my 6 living, lost out. And nothing is a good asset to have.
As for babies, - Care & nurse will be like rolling off a log. Darling - did you realize what an asset you were - well - you'd been! (ahem!) -

Bro. I wish you were marrying the asset some.
I got awful homesick up here - you know how hard it is for me not to have friends. At eight, after supper, exp-Trip - I got so homesick for you I nearly die. When I think of all the boys that have to post their Christmas cards to Sept. again - and maybe I'll see you a week or so my least just sits. This "growing" business is a fine thing and I think I agree

2 with it - but it's an awful & hard way to grow when you're in love. You know & want things that my things are - "you can't be married anytime" - but my heart, my emotions, and beats of my mind - say I want you - not a year, growing. God, dear, what a life we'll lead! I only hope it will be as delightful & as fine as we can make it. I want people to know the "young Buehners" - (wow!) - as an excellently suited couple, lots of fun, yet considerate, thoughtful, and always in ~~touch~~. Have you gotten for this - that I love you with all my heart? - Do my routine work - I think about lots of aspects of the thing so much! How low Tainp I want to have a about what we can do with our lives.
We can't have the I want - with a joy of living - and feeling able to enjoy it.

This needs to be getting a be quite a while. But I haven't been able to write you the long, "letter" I wanted to for quite a while.
I want to add to the lower paragraph - that the physical relationship can add greatly to the beauty, married life - not something to shy away from.

Please, darling, don't forget to get 2 enlargements of the Quaine picture of us. This and negatives of Aunt O + me with me - I think fairly nice too. Say do Drie & Mae know yet?

Also I'm sending 2 films along. I don't dare leave them developed here. But I will pay. Am I ever going to cling to my money. Maybe I'll get enough to help buy my trousseau clothes - I hope. Let's see how much we boys can save by Christmas - for what an objective!

As for your running around

with a cousin woman & her fellows as all get on - but I'm glad you're for company & are leaving - good time. Take fluids for me. But we - the rest, tell me you love me, say "hello" - and we're off.

I'm getting cold & as I was cold last night so didn't sleep so much - I think I'll drop off.

If you ever were in love dear - you know how I feel - you want to say everything that's in your overflowing heart but it isn't possible except by transmission of spirit. So all I can say is that I can hardly wait 'til we're together "until death do us part." Quoten words I'm yours for life -

Ossy
